New World Thinking – TFC1

It is a bold move but sometimes it is ONLY a bold move that will work!

- 1 The last 2yrs and more have brought into sharp focus all the many things which are wrong or just inadequate in our world. We have been shown the fragility of our systems and the shortcomings of our leaders – the leaders charged with the task to care for and protect the people.
- 2 Whilst some leaders may well have crimes to answer for in the near future, what the situation has made plain to us all now is that a different way of thinking is required. A different way of thinking for a different kind of world.
- 3 The foundation stone for the New World Thinking could hardly be easier to define. It is a thinking based on the basic human values that any good human being would readily ascribe to. It is the direct and complete opposite of Old World Thinking which we have been subjected to for so long. The separation of the two – and I mean the differences between the two - could not be any more distinct.
- 4 Let us consider for a moment why it is then, that the foundation stone - about which I speak - does not form the foundation of the world we all currently live in. Why is it that we do not already live in a world attuned to these values which we would ascribe to - as good human beings?

The basic answer to this question is extremely simple. The simplicity is almost unbelievably simple in fact. To correct for it however, is a completely different thing and I will return to that particular subject below.

So, the reason we do not live in such a world already is – simply this:

  1. People have been kept too busy with the task of just staying alive
There has been little time for people to reflect on the world as it is
People are kept at the coalface looking after themselves and families
  2. People relied on what they were told – trusting their governments
It is similar to children trusting their parents to look after them
No child wants to believe a parent will lie to them or mean them harm
  3. People have believed what they were informed of – trusting the media
People have trusted institutions like the BBC to tell a story truthfully
All news channels were once thought to be independent and reliable

The above describes the scene as most people see it, feel it, believe it.

The problem however is more complicated - as I will explain.

4. There are major negative influences in the world with specific agendas
These influences have control over highly placed persons in authority
Certain influences control those persons and institutions with money
The money they have at their disposal for this is almost beyond belief
5. Knowing that people are preoccupied provides ample opportunity
That opportunity allows things to happen without being seen or traced
And politicians have been engaged in such practices for far too long
6. The major element which allows all the above to happen is lack
That is, a lack of a system to bring politicians and others to account
The establishment is structured such to prevent criticism and blame

With the above factors in place, people have been blinded to the truth. If though they actually discovered that truth for themselves - a truth which runs counter to the narrative espoused by government and the media - then there has been little - if anything - that could be done about it.

A small case in question is the Partygate scandal involving the PM and No 10. The people have no power to deliver their judgement on PM Johnson. In effect, he should have been dragged, screaming if necessary, into a Public Court - with his co-party guests - to have judgement delivered upon him and in full public view. If BoJo knew that could happen to him, he almost certainly would not have committed the error in the first place. But then, he arrogantly thought he could get away with it and keep his job.

Take a look at this expose. It is amusing at one level - but places the reality of the situation into clear perspective.

If people speak out about that truth - in many cases proving that it runs counter to the official narrative - then they are either labelled with some derogatory term or silenced through censorship. Additionally, if the person or persons speaking out are high-profiled - due to a position held in their profession - then they are publicly discredited also.

There are countless examples of this treatment being meted to people around the whole world. For anyone following the mainstream media, their only clue to this will be references to those individuals speaking out - that they are this or they are that. In other words, these people are labelled and discredited - and all to protect the apparent truthful official narrative. Which, rarely is truthful.

Anyone following the news reports closely will have seen this happen time and time again over the last 2yrs relative to the C19 story. It is worth noting that governments around the world are well staffed with psychologists and other communication experts - especially in the field of social media - who are well acquainted with the techniques of propaganda to promote - or destroy - a news story.

It was fascinating to discover the presence and number of these experts with seats on the UK's SAGE body – ie Scientific Advisory Group for Emergencies. Communication is a valuable and essential tool in any emergency situation. The trouble comes when that tool is misused for nefarious purposes. There are plenty who have proved that misuse - connected with C19 - and none of it is reported in the mainstream media. One only has to consider the story surrounding the drug Ivermectin - and Dr Tess Lawrie - to know this. And if the government will mislead and lie once – then they will mislead and lie more than once.

This is how the BBC covered the drug - Ivermectin – by calling it false science.

Now listen to Dr Tess Lawrie talking with Del Bigtree of the Highwire. The video is 54min long but is so illuminating!

All the above factors and features of our current society and system of living have been in evidence for years. It is only in very recent times however that the features have become more than obvious to those who have begun looking for the truth – and finding it.

- 5 The above 6 elements mentioned are all key to the success of a coordinated agenda. Many people's response to the suggestion that there is an agenda – and a number of parties signed up to it – is invariably, that such a conspiracy is impossible. I will concede that such an idea is somewhat challenging to comprehend – but possible it is - and it really does exist.

In part, such a thing is possible by route of groups and individuals being taken aside and told only what they need to know. Those groups and individuals are not given the whole story- as that would not work overall. Groups and individuals are instead fed a believable truth which they can sign up to and support with alacrity. They then will do the rest on their own.

Consider this statement for example:

“The strategy to save the NHS is dependent upon the entire population being vaccinated”.

Those people who understand that vaccinations are totally safe, tried, tested and effective, will see the sense of such a strategy. They buy into that strategy readily and, as a result, the agenda - to vaccinate the world as Bill Gates wants – is on its way.

These people supporting the strategy do not need to know any more than what they have been told and now firmly believe. That belief can be so strong that it breaks up previously strong family relationships. I've seen that myself in numerous families. Belief structures are immensely powerful.

One of the most important of those 6 elements above, however, is number 6. There is no system in place that people can trigger that will cause a thorough investigation into the affairs of government. A system literally DOESN'T exist.

The House of Lords – has no function to play here on behalf of the people of this land. Their responsibility is limited to assessing new laws and that only!

Not even the justice system can be drawn into the frame to deal with the charges brought by the public. There are numerous cases which support this claim and a good many relate to the last 2yrs.

Michael O'Bernicia gives an update to Mark Devlin on his legal challenge. This is only one of the cases that have been thwarted by the government.

Attempts by highly qualified and highly regarded scientists and doctors have seen their applications for court process frustrated in some way or declined. A truly free media would fill the gap and voice the true opinion of the people - thus forcing the government and the justice system into action. This would effectively be in defence to save face. But not even that has happened.

The obvious reason for why that has not happened is that the mainstream media, which so many people still watch - by choice - is controlled. One only has to consider the output of the previously trusted BBC to know this. The sad truth is, that our dear old auntie is the Comms Department of the government and will not publish anything which strongly counters the government's narrative. The only subjects the BBC will challenge the government on are lightweight items. This effectively shows the non-critical portion of the population that they will challenge the government and cannot therefore be called lapdogs.

But lapdogs they really are.

Again, the Ivermectin story – and how the BBC addressed it - is proof of exactly that.

Before leaving the subject of the mainstream media, take a listen to the story of a German journalist in the video called Busted.

The story could not be any more shocking.

- 6 Another example of the people being helpless in challenging the affairs of government is in the area of Official Inquiries. How can there be an objective Official Inquiry into the affairs of government when it is the government itself that establishes that Inquiry and the rules of engagement.

Consider this list of inquiries and the results they have produced.

The Trade Centre attacks of 9/11 2001 – George Bush

The Iraq War 2003 – Tony Blair

Dr David Kelly 2003 – Reported suicide

The London 7/7 bombings 2005

Shooting of Jean Charles de Menezes 2005 – Stockwell Tube Station

The official story was that Mr Menezes was shot in error by the MET police, thinking he was a terrorist. The opposing story is that he witnessed bombs being placed on the tube train whilst working on site as an electrician.

Whether the opposing story is true or false, a People led Inquiry – in a world of New World Thinking – would get to the bottom line truth.

Events such as these, should be placed in the hands of a body which is not the government. It would be a body which is representative of the People.

Without such a body, the situation we currently have in the UK – and elsewhere in the world – is likened to this analogy.

A householder elects an interior decorator to remodel their home. The election is determined on an agreed plan of work – the manifesto. The contractor is paid for their time and is set to work on fulfilling that plan. There is no check on that work and no right of the householder to question. The householder has no power over the contractor from here on. The householder can only hope what they believe will happen – will happen. But the contractor can change that plan and do whatever they wish. The control sits 100% with the contractor – despite them being ONLY that. There is literally no control or hold over the contractor from the outset.

If a catastrophe happens - such as lintel failing in a new extension - then an inquiry is conducted to assess what happened and who or what was at fault. The contractor sets up the inquiry and the findings become official. How hideous is that – you will say.

Such a situation is farcical of course, but it is exactly what we all of us have with the current system of government – it's called Old World Thinking.

7 The same situation to the analogy described above is spotlighted by the current conflict in Ukraine. The conflict is being managed by the contractors who have been elected. Those contractors have NOT consulted the people about the conflict and have assumed total control of the conflict and the response to that conflict.

Again, mainstream media are engaged to spill whatever story the contractor wishes the people to swallow. The full effect of wartime propaganda has been witnessed in play to an astonishing extent.

Take a look at this expose of the real goings on in Ukraine. Again, another opening for New World Thinking exists here in plain sight.

The truth is, there will not be one family – NOT ONE – in Ukraine, Russia, the UK or anywhere that will have asked for this conflict. Who wishes to put themselves, their families and their livelihoods at risk? Answer – No One!

The government contractors are responsible for this conflict and literally all the repercussions which have followed - and those which will follow yet. Thanks to the government contractors the world economy is going to suffer hugely. Gas supplies from Russia being cut-off is going to impact billions of people - and next winter in particular. Given the fact that there is an apparent Master Plan to crash the world economy – as some tell – one could see that what's going on against Russia right now could well achieve that plan.

This article will not delve into this particular Master Plan story, but it may feature in another article to come. It relates to ditching cash, wiping debt and getting everybody onto Universal Basic Income – which is denied to citizens if they do not follow orders and get their jobs on time – for example.

This again, is Old World Thinking and the people of this world need to see it as that - and then choose something different.

8 The correction for this Old World Thinking will:

1. Take time to fully understand the extent of the correction required
2. Take even more time to implement the corrections required
3. Be hampered by those who hold onto this Old World Thinking
These people – and there are many – have extremely large interests in keeping things exactly the way they are.

We have all seen from the last 2yrs that the powers at play are immensely powerful. The money which has been spread around turns heads and poisons integrity. Doctors and nurses in the NHS who have witnessed the reality of the C19 pandemic – as distinct from the mainstream media's account of the C19 pandemic – have been threatened over their jobs. So many have chosen to remain silent – and not to speak out – simply because they have a mortgage and kids.

Many medics and paramedics have left the NHS and are leaving the NHS because – as the story goes – they cannot stand with the lies. But getting to the truth would be a relatively easy affair in a world of New World Thinking. In a world of Old World Thinking – the truth is likely to remain hidden to most.

Do question yourself, why so many are leaving the NHS. The reason may be that they cannot remain silent - doing the job they have loved – any more.

As it has been said.

“For evil to succeed only needs good people to do nothing”

Doctors and nurses in the USA have seen:

- people being given treatment known to be harmful
- hospitals being given thousands of dollars to do exactly that
- patients being denied protocols proved to be beneficial to them
- colleagues being sacked for speaking out against such practices

For stories about this – look at Stew Peters.

This all sounds like something from a fiction movie. Of course it does! But it's not fiction and it has been happening on a massive scale. The question is, when are we all going to draw the line and say stop? “We are going to look at this in depth – as a People – for the People.” And I hope it happens soon.

9 Under the current system – the Old World Thinking system – nothing of a positive nature will ever happen. It is New World Thinking that we all need to define, embrace and then enact. And as I mentioned earlier, the definition is really the astonishingly easy bit. It is where our thinking needs to begin. It will be founded on the basic human values and ones which no one in their right mind would object to signing up to. They include:

Truth
Fairness
Transparency
Honesty
Personal and Collective Responsibility

Is there any one of us that could possibly criticise these values?
I personally don't think so – other than people like Bill Gates of course.
Bill's partner in his endeavour is the Bond villain lookalike - Klaus Schwab.

It seems more than clear that these two have something else in mind for everyone. They call it, The New World Order and it is the thing that the government contractors around the world see as their way forward. They make it sound like we will all want it when we know about it. It is being introduced under the banner of "Build Back Better." You will have heard PM Johnson speak of it and all the other major contracted leaders from around the world speak of it too – including, the USA, Canada, France and Germany, Australia and New Zealand.

But guess what. Guess which leader has spoken against Build Back Better and The Great Reset and the New World Order?

The Russian contracted leader – Vladimir Putin - and he says NO to it.
How much of the kick back against Putin is the direct result of his not agreeing to the Master Plan for the world?

The media platform RT News provides a different insight into this particular contractor and I recommend readers to take a look for themselves.

10 These are exciting times and our history and what happens in the months ahead will determine for sure how this human race of ours goes forward.

It is time to draw a line in the sand and reassess.

It is a time for New World Thinking.

And the change – when it happens - will be unrecognisable and the people of this world will emerge from darkness into the warm, clear blue skies of total fairness and peace – among many other good things that stem from the thing we can call New World Thinking.

But - what will each of us do today – and tomorrow – to bring this about?
How many of us will decide to speak out about wrongdoing?
How many of us will put personal integrity above mortgage payments?

On this note, Alan Simpson – oddly, an American politician, once wrote:

"If a man has integrity, nothing else matters.
If a man doesn't have integrity, nothing else matters"
