It's Staring Us In Our Faces

3165 WD

The elephant in the room cannot be ignored any longer. We need to face it!

- 1 This is a subject which has existed for longer than anyone could estimate. It's a subject that – for good people – could not be any worse in its nature. It's a subject that has the power to drop the strongest of men to their knees.

Nothing in this world is worse than the senseless killing of a living entity. Good people know this as part of their very being – their essence. It's a knowing which is part of our makeup as human beings. It's written into our DNA – the very code that defines what we are. The thing is – it seems that the DNA has been corrupted and we aren't all the same in this way.

- 2 There is a subject which has been hidden under the covers since time immemorial. To a great extent it still is – since the mainstream media barely gives it a mention. And if it does, the purpose appears to be to give us all the impression that the matter is being dealt with. But it is NOT!

In the last 20yrs – largely thanks to the internet – an increasing number of brave souls who cannot remain silent on the subject are speaking out. It is thanks to these brave souls – brave because of what can happen to them – that the subject is being uncovered.

And that subject?

I have already suggested that it is the worst of all subjects and – although many of us would prefer not to see it – it remains there in front of us anyway. As of today, it is now in very plain sight. It is in our faces staring back at us. It is the elephant in the room. And for many, that room is our children's class.

The subject I am referring to relates to humanity's children. It is the subject which includes the worst horrors any pure human being could possibly imagine in their darkest of thoughts – their worst of nightmares.

It includes:

- The sexualisation of children from babies
- The abduction of children for the sex industry
- The molestation, rape and torture of children
- The killing of children for their blood and organs

- 3 This is the point where some of you will have read quite enough. In fairness, I and others could hardly blame you. The thing is, although this is an horrific story beyond description, it is NOT a story of fiction. It is a story of FACT – and whether you read on, or not – whether you think about this unpleasant affair, ever again, or not – the outcomes for thousands of children will be exactly the same. The only way this story will end, is if you first become aware of it and – in your own way – be party to the ending of it.

The good thing – and of this many people are sure – the good thing is that it can end and end relatively quickly. That is not to say that the whole thing is wrapped up and put to bed nicely – like we would all hope or prefer it to be. The first chapter in the end game of this horror story begins with enough people knowing that it is really happening. When enough people know that it is happening, two outcomes will follow:

1. The die-hards will drive their activities deeper underground
This will naturally present a further problem to deal with
2. Those involved at a shallow level will give up and try to hide
These people will be among the first to receive judgement

- 4 Many people reading these lines, will - if they have reached this far – be in total disbelief. Frankly, there was a time when I was. The first thing anyone will think is that the very idea is just too horrendous and thus it cannot be true. The second thing is, that if it is going on – and if it is known about now in the way I'm suggesting – then the authorities would be on to it.

Well, it is too horrendous – that's agreed – but it's going on anyway. As for the authorities, there is a monumental shift to be made here about the true nature of the authorities.

Considering the authorities, you may like to begin with this idea.

Consider, if you will, that senior members of the authorities actually started the whole affair in the first place. We are likely to be going back in time here, measured not in years, not even decades, but rather centuries.

One thing that certain people in authority have done – and done to get their way in the world – is to trap their recruits in some form of compromising position. The honey trap is a typical ploy used by security agents in the past. We've all seen the reality of this replicated in the cinema. To take the idea further, imagine a recruit with a feverish ambition to make career progress. They'll nod acceptance to any good-sounding idea from their superiors, thinking it's what they should do – to please their superiors and themselves.

The next thing these recruits know is that they are bound to secrecy. If they break that secrecy, then their careers, if not their lives, could well be over.

I remember reading the story of an American senator saying to a new and up and coming recruit - having just landed on Capitol Hill - beware young fella! He was told to beware of being invited to a casual drinks party - knowing he would be impressed by the invite - only to discover later that his drinks had been spiked. Additionally, he was warned, you may find yourself waking up in bed, naked, next to a child with a photo of the two of you on the bed beside you. From that moment on, you are one of two things:

1. Completely theirs - under their control in all things, or
2. Dead!

It really is as simple as that. Blackmail works and it works extraordinarily well for the people we are talking about.

Once these people are in the club - they are in the club - and they will die before they give up the secret. And some have.

And that is what we appear to be faced with.

I will include below a link to an eye-opening documentary. It is about child abduction and in two forms - unofficial as in snatching and official as in authority-backed. It also touches on child satanic ritual abuse SRA and the death of someone who became a whistle-blower - spilling the beans on some of the club members in Hollywood.

His name was Isaac Kappy.

Isaac will give you a first insight into this subject.

His video was made shortly before he was found dead.

It is linked to in Further Reading.

Another enlightening video I suggest watching, also features Isaac in his last days. Interestingly, the person he shared some brief hours with - in early May 2019 - describes a phenomenon called Voice 2 Skull V2S.

It could explain what they both heard whilst driving into town one evening.

The documentary video is by Stew Peters and a description of V2S is provided by Targeted Justice.

- 5 So, where is the evidence for any of this, you will be asking - remembering that I have already said that it is staring us all in the face. Well, there is an ocean of material that is surfacing in different quarters. The video referred to above is but one. None of it will be found on the popular social media channels and for the obvious reason that these are controlled - just like the general news content is. What those in authority do not want you to see - you won't see - by these routes.

Thankfully, the position at the moment is that material of the type I am referring to can surface on non-controlled platforms and feeds. That said, you may be familiar with the drive of governments around the world to censor undesired content being shared over the internet. Connect has logged hundreds of videos, over the last 2yrs and they have now disappeared off the channel. That channel being YouTube.

Many governments - including the one in Westminster - are in the process of passing just the type of legislation to wipe all material of this type. The thing is, the drive is not to prohibit the proliferation of pornography - although that will be stated as one of the objectives. Instead, the new legislation will address, among its targets, the sharing of material which doesn't accord with the government's narrative - any of its narratives. That will include talk of certain authorities being involved in paedophile rings and worse.

The strategy the UK government is using with its Online Safety Bill - based on its aims to regulate internet content to keep people safe and providing powers to demand that platforms identify and remove child abuse content - includes working with child safety campaigners, like the NSPCC. If the government wanted to deal with child abuse it could and would not need to use this route to achieve it. Technically, the police could do the job the population expects it to do. That aside, it appears this is another strategy formulated on what other people want - like the NSPCC in this case - rather than the control of the internet traffic that the government wants - to control any opposing narrative.

The 'safety' selling tactic is always a popular one and certainly in this case. It's almost a trademark for getting through more restrictions levelled upon people. It worked with lockdowns and masks in the case of C19.

- 6 Returning though to the main subject - rather than speak about individual stories, which would realistically fill the next twenty pages or more in tightly edited form - I want to set a challenge.
I really mean, I want to set you a challenge!

That challenge is to be brave enough to face this reality and listen to some of the testimony from both commentators and victims. One thing I am not asking you to do - and this is something most important to understand. I'm not asking you to believe any of these testimonies. I'm only asking that you explore some of those that I point you to and - importantly - assess their truth value for yourself. Let your inner stranger - your intuition - guide you to the truth - whatever that truth might be.

If your intuition - that inner stranger I've talked about before in another article - says there is something here in all this - something worthy of being investigated and investigated by a body not appointed or controlled by the authorities - then that will be a positive result. The object here is not to be proved right or to have anyone else proved right. Instead, the object is to get to the truth - the gcrd gold truth - and only that. Once that is arrived at and widely known, the appropriate action - whatever action is determined as being necessary - can be taken.

- PS1 As I finish writing this article, I have been alerted to the story of a young 8yr old boy, Vishal, who went missing in 1981. The young boy's remains were subsequently found in Sussex. The story, carried by the BBC, is titled: Vishal Mehrotra: Killed boy's family cannot forgive police inaction.

The police inaction in this case – according to Vishal's family – is by no means uncommon in cases of this type.

One such case involves two young children of similar age attending a school in North London. Their recorded testimony – provided to an investigating police officer at a police station - will stun anyone. The named perpetrators involved, including the children's estranged father, were not brought to trial. Among the odd outcomes to this story was that the children's mother, who first rang the alarm bells on what the children had been involved in with their father, lost custody of the children. Custody was awarded to the father with no case to answer. I challenge you to listen to the children's testimony. Their names are Alisa and Gabriel. The articles are AB-2301B and AB-2301C. They can be found in the BANK section of the LIBRARY linked to below.

The above two cases – on the face of it – appear to indicate that the police weren't interested in getting the perpetrators brought to justice. In both cases, it appears the police were part of a cover-up. Strange, you may think. But these two cases are not the only indicators of cover-ups. There are many.

Please now take this away with you.

The way this horrific blot on our world today can be brought to an end, is by enough people becoming aware that it is happening. Hiding from the truth of it is not an option for any good human being. When the perpetrators know that their game is up, a clean-up process can begin. The process won't even start, however, until enough people – starting with you – are aware of it.

As Isaac said, this could all end tomorrow if enough people came out. Please share!

PS2 In the process of finishing this article, I was also alerted to another story of relevance covered by The People's Voice.
DHS Head Ousted by Congress for 'Facilitating Child Sex Slavery'

It refers to children entering the USA unaccompanied and the authorities losing track of them. Why would anyone allow such a combination of failures to happen? It talks about 345,000 children in a period of 2yrs. Again, a senior member of the establishment is seen as responsible. Here, it's Homeland Security Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas. Was he acting alone - unaccompanied? It's difficult to imagine he was.

PS3 The Daily Mail had another take on the story – which really reveals that the MSM have an agenda – and we should be aware of how that agenda looks.
Republican forces Alejandro Mayorkas to confront family of granddaughter killed by human smuggler in hearing calling him a 'liar' who is complicit in the border crisis and fentanyl deaths of '100,000 Americans'

Mayorkas has been under intense pressure to defend the Biden administration's border policies. And Wednesday's hearing saw him on the receiving end of hostile questioning, accused of being a 'liar' and of being complicit in thousands of drug deaths.

The flashpoint came during Rep. Marjorie Taylor Greene's moment in the spotlight, when she sought to score points during her allotted five minutes.

'I want to know from you, how many more people do we have to watch die every single day in America? How many more young people do we have to see die? How many more teenagers?'

asked the conspiracy theorist from Georgia.

'How many more parents cry themselves to sleep at night, if they could even sleep, because their child overdosed on fentanyl?'

'How long are you going to continue this outrage?'

Let me assure you that we're not letting it go on.'

Mayorkas answered. 'We are fighting this ...'

The answer infuriated Greene who interrupted his words.

'I reclaim my time, you're a liar. You are letting this go on, the numbers prove it'.

The points I wish to spotlight here, reveals the Daily Mail for having an agenda to discredit the questioner and label them with that old wrapper Conspiracy Theorist. This has become reversed overtime and is now increasingly viewed as a label of truth.

Since when has the concept of asking a serious question of someone - who should know the answer - be demoted to an act of point-scoring?

I have highlighted the passages as you will have seen.

As for the subject of Conspiracy Theory , then you might take a read of the collection of articles in the Connect LIBRARY linked to below.

PS4 All the above quoted references are included in the CONNECT LIBRARY. The LIBRARY is our Records Repository where articles on this and other related subjects can be found. Also to be found are articles linked together in strings. The strings relate to particular threads – connecting articles across different subjects and topics.
