Another GP Doctor Speaks Out

2065 BB

If doctors had spoken out before – the Covid story would have been so different

1 These last few months we have all witnessed in the mainstream media the pressure being applied to NHS staff to either get the jab OR get the sack. The final deadline was 31mar22. Nice! So much for freedom of choice – it's down to bullying. Gross!

2 The NHS have never been overstaffed with qualified medics – but with waiting lists now skyrocketing – over 6million patients now waiting for treatment – the govt. has been prepared to sack 100,000 medics for non-compliance with their mad mandate.

3 Thankfully this disaster has now been averted. Health Secretary Sajid Javid turned a corner and announced last week that the mandate – “to get the jab or get the sack” – has now been binned [or maybe just shelved].

Suddenly the risk to everyone has just gone away. Javid said himself that the mandate is no longer necessary due to the reduced risks attached to C19.

Maybe it has gone away and maybe it hasn't.

Maybe though the risk didn't exist in the first place.

The turnaround in orders may have been due to 1 or 2 things – OR even both!

1. The stupidity of sacking 100k trained and valued NHS workers
The knock effect to healthcare and waiting lists for millions of us
The negative PR for the govt. policy would have been massive!
2. The pushback by the same medics protesting the mandate
There were an est. 250k protestors in London on sat22jan22
Next to nothing about that was on the BBC or other major platforms
That's due to Silence Culture – since that story clearly didn't fit the official narrative!

4 What we don't understand, is why there has NEVER been an open debate about this whole C19 thing.

We all get told that the government are following the science.

Well, that sounds sound enough – but we have to ask – who's science?

If you take a look at the people who represent that science, it opens up a can of worms and a whole load more very key and important questions.

So many of these people are in high places as you would expect. What you would NOT expect to see, are their serious connections with the either the jab makers – who have masses to earn out of jabbing people – or Bill Gates – the self-appointed guru of office computer software and whole world health matters – also with masses to earn out of jabbing people.

- 5 On the opposite side of the fence is a whole group of senior doctors and scientists from around the world, talking about a different science. That is, a science they talk about and share with others – questioning the data and the potential reasons for the results behind the data. And they do this like all good doctors and scientists do.

These people believe in talking and sharing and questioning. Their approach though is in direct opposition to the approach we hear and get from our governments – and THEIR scientists. These people, working with corporates they call “Factcheckers”, do everything it seems in their power to close-down talking of any kind and do their best to eliminate from the internet and media the slightest hint of a different narrative to their own.

Now to have a difference of opinion is healthy. What is not healthy is the idea of not talking about those differences. Talking about those differences is what intelligent grown-up people do. Anything else, is neither of those things – intelligent or grown-up. Anything else, points to being nefarious in nature.

If you think this sounds worrying – then you are thinking what I am thinking! And, it is made worse when you listen to people like Dr David Cartland.

- 6 Dr David Cartland is a practising GP in Cornwall, England, and has been put on alert due to what he has noticed about his patients and what he has found from his own investigations.

Take a read of Dr David's article published by Brees Media – in which he lays out his findings and his concerns. Basically, what he has noticed and found is just not right – he says – and he is now one of a small number of medics brave enough to speak out.

It is highly recommended that if you are here – at this point in the text – then you owe it to yourself to read what Dr David has to say. It will not harm you – but it could save a life – yours and who knows how many others.

- 7 Other brave medics who have spoken out, include Dr Sam White. His story is amazing and recently he won his High Court case.

In mid-September, Dr Sam filed an appeal in the High Court against a Medical Practitioners' Tribunal Service's determination and the conditions placed on his practice – that Dr Sam should not be able to post on social media about the Covid pandemic and all “associated aspects” and that he should remove all posts. Cancel Culture at its very best.

Dr Sam is one of those doctors with True Grit – with integrity to match – and has since joined the frontline of specialists who are bringing action in the courts. That court action includes the International Criminal Court located in

- The Hague – in a case against the government and more importantly, named persons within the government.
- 8 Another medic is Dr Lucie Wilk.
In November 2021, Dr Lucie wrote her article – “Why Have We Doctors Been Silent?”
I would recommend a read of this article if you value your health.
- One paragraph reads:
What has been most upsetting for me has been the unquestioning compliance from the medical community as increasingly draconian, non-evidence-based and destructive virus control measures have been implemented. Some of the overt corruption, financial conflict of interests and politicisation has been laid bare in editorials in prominent medical journals such as the BMJ. But the vast majority of doctors have had no interest in asking questions or looking further.
- 9 Now, not being a medic – or even technical – I do not have any answers to any of the above. What I do know however, is that there are masses of questions arising from the above – and other places – which deserve talking about. But they are not being.
- Are we worried?
You could say that.
Have we lost trust?
Well, I don't know about you of course – but I've seen enough.
- 10 One other medic to mention is Dr Tess Lawrie.
Dr Tess is highly qualified in her field and due to this, has been advising the NHS and the World Health Organisation through her consultancy practice.
- And what a story Dr Tess has to tell.
Dr Tess is one special lady and if you feel like arguing against her findings, then I personally wish you luck. PM Johnson didn't argue with her – he and his staff just ignored her. That fact will return to bite someone's rear end.
- Take a listen to Dr Tess speaking with Chris Masterjohn PhD
- Like Dr Sam – mentioned above – Dr Tess is working with a host of other specialists bringing action against the UK government - as well as other governments - in the International Criminal Court in The Hague.
- Frankly, it does not get any more serious than this.
- 11 I am not a betting person – at least not for money – but I'm happy to stake my life on the explosion which is going to happen in the months ahead – with a Nuremberg style court case happening soon after.
- This is truly monumental – and whatever the truth will turn out to be, I am sure there will be people serving time in a very dark place – with no doors.
