Knighthood Dishonour?

2015 RA

The prestige connected with Knighthood has been dealt a terrible blow

- 1 For many people, the Queen's New Year's Honours List holds more than a degree of passing interest. It's interesting to note those stand-out citizens making it to the top-levels of societal recognition. They're awarded the titles of CBE, OBE and MBE for distinguished contributions in their specific areas of activity.
- 2 Then there's this year's Knighthoods - and on the list this time are three people whose inclusion have stoked the fire of controversy. The most stand-out person among them being Tony Blair - ex-Prime Minister of the UK.
- 3 Many people will remember the premiership of Tony Blair for one reason and one reason only - the 2003 Iraq War. The fever in the country in the months leading up to the war was at a height which most people hadn't seen before. The only thing that had got anywhere close to the same outpouring of dissent was the backlash meted on Margaret Thatcher's government for its proposed Poll Tax - 13yrs earlier. The backlash to the Poll Tax was so vehement that the proposed new legislation to fund local services by taxing people - unfairly as so many thought - was scrapped.

It was a pity that for over one million people elsewhere in the world that the proposed scrap with Iraq didn't go the same way.
- 4 In the eyes of many people in the UK and far beyond, Tony Blair was in the pocket of the US President of the time, George W Bush. The story is that the American administration had determined that regime change was needed in Iraq to oust Iraq's leader Saddam Hussein. Now Saddam was no angel and he has been accused of some truly awful atrocities delivered on people from neighbouring lands - as well as on his own kind. That said, he was not as evil - in some people's eyes - as this particular American President.
- 5 People around the world had smelt something unpleasant about this guy when he came to power in 2001. It began with a controversial election win in Florida that saw Al Gore - the other election contender for the White House job - defeated on an extraordinary technicality, centred on vote counting. This is a recurring theme in the US as we have come to know.

But that smell got worse.
Bush - together with the team that surrounded him - was on stage for the event of the century - that was 9/11 and the downing of the World Trade

Centre twin towers in New York. It occurred very soon after Bush got his feet tucked under the Oval Office table.

The story of the twin towers is monumental and twenty years on, it fills people's minds with as much distrust of the government and the supporting media as it ever did. In fact, probably even more so now – given the abundance of evidence of a false flag operation.

Included in that evidence is a superb analytical piece of work which is compelling to say the very least. It involves the supposed attack on the Pentagon building involving flight 77. The official narrative is that a Boeing 757 airliner ploughed into the building at ground level. The alternative narrative - as shown in the analytical film - tells a different story. It points to NO plane crash and an internal explosion to look like a plane crash.

- 6 And there we have it – it appears. A deception of the highest order and one involving a government and its own people. If one were to believe the alternative narrative on the 9/11 story – where does it place us, on all the stories which follow?

Back to Tony Blair.

- 7 Today it has come to light that the Defence Secretary serving in Blair's cabinet at the time of the 2003 Iraq war was Geoff Hoon.

According to GB News today:

"Geoff Hoon has claimed he was ordered to burn an Iraq War memo that stated the invasion was illegal in his new memoir See How They Run.

Hoon - who was the Defence Secretary during the 2003 war - says that Blair's chief of staff Jonathan Powell told his private secretary "in no uncertain terms" to destroy the document."

- 8 An interesting comment, Hoon makes, we think – and one which seems to fit exceptionally well with the story told in a docu-film "Official Secrets".

The 2019 British real life drama film is based on the case of whistle-blower, Katharine Gun, who leaked a memo exposing an illegal spying operation by American and British intelligence services to gauge sentiment of and potentially blackmail, United Nations diplomats tasked to vote on a resolution regarding the 2003 invasion of Iraq. Katherine judged that the war was illegal at Tony Blair and others knew it! Hence her leaking the intel.

Katherine bravely stood up to the establishment and said:

"I don't work for the government – I work for the British people. I don't gather intelligence so the government can lie to the British people."

Again, this is another compelling story and the excitement – if you can call it that, given what happened to so many people as a consequence of the war – builds through the story right up to a stunning ending.

Watch the trailer for a sneaky peak.

- 9 Taking together all the stories about the Iraq war and our ex-PM Tony Blair – not forgetting the supposed suicide of Dr David Kelly - the feelings towards him being Knighted is leaving people with a very raw feeling indeed. In fact, at the time of writing 775.087 have signed a petition, which is headed:

Tony Blair to have his "Knight Companion of the Most Noble Order of the Garter" rescinded

- 10 Important to mention about the war is the following:
Documentation of war casualties is not an exact science and never can be. The death count is positively horrific as the details recorded show. But safe to say that the deaths of military personnel and civilians tops over ONE MILLION souls with a countless number injured and maimed.

On top of that, the "sexed up dossier" - as the Weapons of Mass Destruction dossier, produced by the UK government, was apparently referred to by Dr David Kelly before his untimely demise – was just that. Sexed Up it was.

The dossier told of military strikes on London being possible within a few hours and, accordingly, war was a necessity to protect the British people. There were of course NO weapons of Mass destruction ever found in Iraq – as was pretty much known without doubt to be the case in the run up to war.

The British parliament and the British people were purposefully misled by SIR Tony Blair. Some people – in fact so many people are very unhappy that he is not YET serving a long sentence for war crimes. But then this is 2022 – and so much is destined to be revealed and destined to be changed for good this year.

Again according to GB News today:

"Sir Keir had earlier told ITV's Good Morning Britain: "I don't think it's thorny at all; I think he deserves the honour. Obviously I respect the fact that people have different views."

It just indicates the calibre of politicians we have serving the people. Keir Starmer's record – as Labour party and opposition leader - on holding the government to account over its strategies to deal with the 2019 pandemic, just underlines the woeful position we are all in.

- 11 And before closing on this sorry and UNFINISHED story about a fallen British Prime Minister, there is the matter of the Royal family and HM Queen.

Prince Andrew is singularly destroying the integrity of the family with his horrific involvement with underage sex exploits and deep connection with a convicted sex offender. Not to mention all the apparent lies which are being uncovered and the secret silencing deals.

Added to the sorry picture now is the fact that the Queen has the final say so on who gets what. Your judgement Ma'am - is faulty!

But then your judgement Ma'am is based on government advice of course and we know how faulty that is too.

This could all yet return soon to bite hard on the Royal bo**om. Time will tell.

PS1 Then there is the story of the honorary Knighthood bestowed on Bill Gates by the Queen in 2005. That was just about the time Gates was delivering a talk to the US military at the pentagon about his ability – and his science – to deliver a pathogen into militant Iraq people, which would alter their God gene – so to make them far more passive, amenable and easier to deal with.

That makes one think doesn't it - about the apparent gene altering jabs Gates has been heavily promoting around the world over the last two years or more. Another UNFINISHED story!

How passive are we all becoming exactly?
Another booster might do the job perhaps?.
